Two Coroners Consider Evidence in Case of Daniel Sullivan-Law Compels Attendance of Unwilling Witness-District Court Adjourns in Memory of Deputy Sheriff Coon-Dr. Floyd W. Rogers Injured-James

SECRET INQUEST AT WESTERLY

S. Earbour Dead. coroner for the town of Westerly, the appointee of the town council declining to qualify, the office being considered to qualify, the office being considered of no consequence since the coroner's jury plan was supplanted by the appointment of medical examiners, who did the duty formerly covered by a coroner's jury. About two years ago a foreman at the New England Granite works was killed by the falling of a derrick, and it was considered advisable to officially decide the responsibility. It was then ascertained that there was no coroner for the town of Westerly, and Everett A. Kingsley was appointed coroner and held an inquest in that case.

From the information received by the attorney general it is evident that that "poisoned whiskey" was pur-chased in Westerly and that the man died in Westerly, making it a case clearly within the province of the prosecuting authorities of Rhode Island.

It differs materially from a legal standpoint from the cases where Coroner Brown found that the poison was sold as whiskey in Rhode Island to residents of Connecticut and who died in that state. Therefore the attorney general of Rhode Island can go no further in those cases than to cause the ther in those cases than to cause the arrest and indictment of the person claimed to have sold the whiskey, for a violation of the liquor law. It is the claim of Ethode Island authorities that all that legally can will be done in probing the cause of every suspicious death that has occurred in Westerly

For a number of years there was no | from the alleged use of poisoned

There was a brief session of the Third district court Friday, Judge Wil-lams stating at the opening that no business that could be continued would business that could be continued would be transacted, as it was his desire that court adjourn in respect to the memory of Deputy Sheriff Eugene W. Coon, a court officer, who had died since the last session of court. After the reading of the docket Attorney A. T. L. Ledwidge, in behalf of the members of the Washington county bar, read the following resolutions:

Stating that the members of the Rhode Island bar of Washington county, called together by the death of Eu-erly, and Everett A. Kingsley was appointed coroner and held an inquest in that case.

The coroner was not called upon to act since that time until the medical examiner and attorney general ordered an inquest as to the circumstances of the death of Daniel Sullivan.

Coroner Everett A. Kingsley, assisted by Coroner Eugene Lincoln of Providence, representing the attorney general of Rhode Island, held the Daniel Sullivan inquest Friday afternoon in the town hall, the inquiry being secret and only one witness being before the coroner at a time. Police Chief Bransfield acted as court officer.

In the cuse under consideration it is alleged that the "poisoned whiskey" from which Mr. Sullivan drank was purchased from a resident of Pierce street, who denies the allegation; but that is a question to be settled by the coroner's inquest the members of the deuton of Washington county, called together by the death of Eugene W. Coon, a deputy sheriff for the past cleven years of said county, called together by the death of Eugene W. Sheriff John R. Wilcox has not appointed a deputy sheriff for Westerly, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Eugene W. Coon, and does not propose to fill the vacancy without mature deliberation. In the meantime Deputy Sheriff George H. Barber of Hope Valley is spending most of his time in Westerly, so as to be available in case his service is required. time in Westerly, so as to be available in case his service is required.

Constable James W. Burke and Town Sergeant Herbert P. Clark are receptive candidates, as are also two experienced members of the Westerly police force.

Muscular build are not esential requirements of a deputy sheriff, although it may be an advantage occasionally, as is illustrated in the case of Deputy Sheriff Tubbs of New London county, one of the most efficient deputies in the state and perhaps the smallest deputy sheriff in build in all New England.

Dr. Floyd W. Rogers, a practicing physician at Wickford, was seriously injured Thursday afternoon by falling from the back porch of his home. He was on the porch with a son who was sitting on the rail. The doctor leaned against the rail and it broke, and both he and his son fell to the concrete walk. Dr. Rogers struck on his head and was rendered unconscious, the result of the fall being concussion of the brain. The son was not injured. Local physicians and a doctor from Newport were summoned and in their opinion the injured man will recover.

Dr. Rogers is a native of Waterford, Conn., and is known in Westerly, where he was employed in the drug store in High street kept by Dr. E. H. Knowles several years ago. Subsequently he was in the drug business as a member of the firm of Rogers & Lyon and later on his own account. Afterward with his brother Henry he was in the drug business in Newport, the home of Mrs. Rogers. He made a special study of medicine and after passing a highly satisfactory examination became a practicing physician and located in Wickford.

Alfred W. Kenyon of Usquepaugh, member of the state harbor commission, is critically ill from a general breaking down resulting from advanced age. He is one of the best known men in Washington county, an old guard of the republican party, and a familiar figure at the state capitol. He represented the town of Richmond in the state senate for many years and first served in the legislature forty years ago.

In connection with the Sullivan in-quest the Connecticut law enacted in 1903 was invoked for the first time by Westerly authorities in securing the presence of an important witness by a though an unwilling witness.

At half past 3 o'clock Friday afternoon the coroner's inquest was opened, Coroner Kingsley stating that at the request of Attorney General Greenough the session would be private, and the session would be private, and the sentatives assembled were notified to retire. Then the inquest began, the questioning being conducted by Coroner Lincoln of Providence, only one witness at a time being allowed in the hall. Oliver H. Williams, Jr., acted as clerk and stenographer.

The session lasted for three hours and the testimony of tweive witnesses was taken, which will be transcribed and submitted to the witnesses for signature, and it is expected that this will be accomplished by Saturday night.

Coroner Kingsley held another session of the coroner's court Friday evening and took some corroborative testimony. He said additional testimony would be taken Saturday of a fragmentary nature but important in the completion of the case, and he believed that then the coroner's inquest would be closed. The coroner said it would be three or four days before he could complete his report, which would be filed with the clerk of the superior court.

A significant feature of the inquest with Mr. Coon, he declared that he was heartily in favor of the resolutions and ordered that they become a part of the record of the court. Then the court adjourned. The deputy sheriff's chair was draped in mourning during the session of court.

Sheriff John R. Wilcox has not any state of the council, Royal Arcanum.

The Westerly High school baseball team played an exhibition game, and not a gilt edged one at that, on the Vose grounds Friday afternoon with the C. B. Cottrell Sons' company nine, and the high school champions were walloped by the machinists in three-to-one style. The champs were defeated by a score of 15 to 5.

Seven young men will be admitted to membership by baptism at Calvary Baptist church Sunday evening. At a fire drill at the Westerly High school Friday morning the two hundred pupils left the building in an orderly way in just forty-five seconds.

Paul Hillard, son of Dr. William A. Hillard, while riding a bleycle in West Broad street, was bitten in the left leg by a dog. The two wounds infficted were cauterized.

The members of Narragansett lodge of Odd Fellows will attend the Sunday evening service in Christ Episcopal church. Rev. William F. Williams will preach a special sermon.

Keep the Powder Dry.

It is the fashion to decry and denounce those Americans who would "keep the powder dry" when coming in contract, diplomatically or otherwise, with Japan. "The lady doth protest too much methinks." Everybody in Japan is insisting that a war between that country and ours is both absurd and impossible; but that is precisely what they said about the threatened war with Russia that came suddenly and proved costly and bloody.

It was a clay of thunder from a serene sky—the assault on Port Arthur, that was the unheralded beginning of one of the greatest and one of the bravest wars of mankind. It is rather
